What are Shingles exactly?

Shingles are a type of roof covering which protect the home and give it an aesthetic advantage. Usually flat and rectangular in shape, the shingles are laid from the bottom edge of the roof upwards, each successive course overlaps the joints below. Shingles fall into two categories - Architectural or Dimensional shingles and three-tab shingles. Architectural are layered whereas three-tab only contains a single layer. Lightweight, affordable and easy to install, they are the perfect choice for protecting your home. Laminated Asphalt Shingles are Taurus specialty. There are two types: Organic paper fiber mat which is better for cold weather and wind resistance and Fibre glass which help protects against fire and moisture. The latter is impregnated with asphalt and coated with mineral granules which helps waterproof and prevents leaks. The shingles can also boast of protection with a volcanic temperament. The incandescent lava became basalt rock which later became the granules. Hence, the incredible strength and unique beauty. There is less risk of storm damage not to mention it is also maintenance free. For longevity, a great look and superior performance, Taurus is the way to go.

“Value and performance in a genuine wood-shake look”
